

Goals / Success?

Replace this text with high-level goal statement.

Failure Success means avoiding 100% of these	Minimum Success Success means achieving 100% of these	Target Success Success means achieving 40-60% of these	Epic Success
Items are not displayed to Customers Customers cannot order items online Customers cannot create accounts Owner cannot create employee accounts Inventory is not updated upon purchases Delivery orders are not delivered to the correct address. Owner cannot add shifts to Employee	Items can be created Owner can create employee accounts Customer can create accounts Employee can create customer accounts Inventory is updated upon purchases Customers can both order items via pickup or delivery Customers can complete in store purchases. Owner can add shifts to Employee	The system remembers customer order history displayed in their account. Employees who are fired or quit retain the ability to order items. Business Hours change on special day Inventory for fresh items automatically update every set timeframe. Customers can see which items are in stock and which items are out of stock. Owner can see a calendar view of a specific week that displays the shift for the specific week. Employees get a specific discount on every order. Employees can indicate shifts where they are available. Employees can view their shift for a particular week in calendar view	The website displays recommendations for a customer based on their past orders. Customers who frequently make purchases are given discount codes. Customers can check when a certain item will be back in stock. Customer can make pre-orders when items are out of stock Customers can request items to be added to the system. Customers can track the delivery in real-time. Fresh produces each have their expiry date in the system and inventory updates according to this timeframe.